Continuous Conflict

There seems to be no end to the fighting in the Middle East. According to the June 15, 2002 edition of The New York Times, America is now fighting an international jihad. This drastically changes America's "War on Terrorism". America isn't just fighting Bin Laden and his "Evil Ones" anymore, now the terrorist groups have united under an international jihad. This international jihad is going on in Israel, Algeria, Philippines, India, Pakistan, Malaysia, Indonesia, Bosnia, and many other countries in the Middle East and northern Africa.

America should re-evaluate its plan of action in the "War on Terrorism" now. America should stop all contact with countries known to have state sponsored terrorism. The US is foolish to think success is possible while those countries have schools that teach children how to become terrorists under the guise of international jihad. The problem is, the UN has weakened the US's and its member nation's military and nuclear supply so much that they don't have the resources to fight simultaneous jihads across the globe. The solution to this problem is, do not go to those countries that sponsor terrorism or allow their people to come here. Sever all economic and political ties to those countries and allies of those countries. The U.S. must also increase its military in all aspects, defensively and offensively, and immediately remove it self from the UN.

Now that the UN has reduced the size of the member nations militaries, it has essentially forced the US, and all member nations to work together or succumb to an immoral and destructive way of life. China has been one of the most cooperative and powerful member nations of the UN. China has cooperated by receiving aid from the UN to control the population of China by enforcing abortion, infanticide and sterilization. The UN Human Rights Commission refuses to sanction China for this crime against humanity. China also is of use because it is still a communist nation. Communism has long been a tool of the UN.

Will the United States, and the UN member states all unite somehow to combat this international jihad that has entangled it self into all of our societies and is big enough now to pose a feasible threat? I doubt it, there is no way communism and the US constitution can ever be merged without an extreme loss of Freedom and Liberty. As long as the US is a member of the UN there will be continuous conflict with the international jihad. The UN's objective to weaken the United States so much, even the developing countries could challenge the US, has been in operation since the mid 1960's. It's not a coincidence that those developing countries are the majority in the UN. Since it has been proven that the UN is controlled by a majority of member nations that sponsor terrorism at the expense of US taxpayers, the United States should not be a member. Without the US's money those countries will not have the money to support an international jihad.

The American people must get the US out of the UN. The American people must wake up and remember who they are and why our ancestors came here. We are American's who came here for the Freedom and Liberty to do what we want, when we want and only be accountable to God and each other. America is great because at its very heart it fears God. The U.S. Constitution has the perfect balance of power so that people can live their lives free and without fear. If we hold our Congress and President accountable to the laws set forth by the US Constitution we will be able to preserve our way of life. Otherwise there will always be continuous conflict with the International Jihad.
